

REBUILDING SYRIA

One year on from the devastating earthquake

Background

Since 2011, Syria has been engulfed in a crisis which has displaced millions and plunged the economy into a collapse.

In the 12th year of the conflict, large-scale clashes have slowly diminished but the suffering continues to grow due to a devastated infrastructure, spiralling inflation, the severe impact of sanctions. According to United Nations (UN) reports, 90 per cent of people across Syria live under the poverty line including 14.6 million in severe or extreme need – a number that will only rise with the recent earthquakes. Syria also contains the largest number of Internally displaced people (IDPs) in the world: over 12 million have fled their homes and an estimated 6.8 million live as refugees in host countries.

This has resulted in the spread of diseases like cholera and the recent earthquake which caused more 5,900 deaths and over 8,600 injures.

Islamic Relief's response to the earthquake

Islamic Relief has been on the ground in Syria since the first day of the earthquakes enhancing its already existing 11 years operations since the onset of the crisis. Our teams have been working tirelessly to provide lifesaving aid and support including, medical aid for hospitals, mattresses, plastic sheets, kits for the elderly, kits for children blankets, tents, heating material, parcels of bread, water supplies, sanitation, and rubble removal, ready to eat items including cakes, juices, dates, hygiene items, cash assistance and cards/vouchers for food and hygiene items. We will continue to scale up our response, we are working towards long-term rebuilding and restructuring to ensure that aid is delivered to those who need it most.

Livelihoods

Livelihood support

This project seeks to improve the livelihood through livestock and agricultural support to families in Syria. For the agricultural support component Islamic Relief will provide the families with agricultural input including wheat seeds, fertilisers, and basic tools. Families will be provided with ongoing technical support to improve their knowledge and practices to get best yield. The estimated yield will be sufficient to cover the food needs of the household and any excess can be sold in the market to contribute to the income of the family.

For the livestock component Islamic Relief supports families with experience in sheep raising and may own no more than 5 sheep. The families are provided with concentrated feed and two or three Ewes. During the beginning of the winter period when the feed is expensive and unaffordable it's provided by Islamic Relief. The sheep are vaccinated to prevent contagious diseases. The families also receive livestock health and milk kit. The expected milk production covers the family's dairy needs and any excess is sold in the market to contribute to the income of the family.

Case Study

"I am a father of seven children. I work as a farmer, as did my father, grandfather, and everyone in my village. Like all Syrians, because of the frequent intense bombing, we had to flee to safer areas, the journey of displacement lasted four years until things settled down. Then we began to return to the village, but upon our return, it was very difficult to start farming again due to the war and the shortage of supplies and price increase. But praise be to Allah, today I am harvesting the first wheat crop after I got help from Islamic Relief with the will of Allah. They provided us with fertilisers, pesticides, bags to fill the crop and everything needed, May Allah bless you, increase you and help you to do good." - Abdul Latif

Health

Rehabilitation support:

As a result of the ongoing crisis in Syria, there is a greater need of trauma and health support. Delivering life-saving medical support to the most vulnerable inside Syria by supporting existing Rehabilitation Centres. The support will mainly take the form of salaries and medical supplies.

All services provided are according to Essential Health Services Package protocols developed by The World Health Organization (WHO) and health cluster partners.

Dialysis support:

This intervention supports the operating of dialysis centres capable of providing life-saving dialysis treatment to patients in Northern Syria. The project supports the dialysis centre with all its running costs which include doctors, nurses, support staff salaries, utilities, office supplies, medicines, Personal Protective Equipment (PPE), and medical equipment.

Psychosocial support:

This intervention provides safe and accessible treatment to Gender-based violence (GBV) survivors and other trauma survivors.

The aim of this project is to focus on reducing stigma around GBV and its survivors in the health sector itself, by increasing the number of trained health professionals on GBV response.

Case Study:

Satee 9 was badly injured in an explosion that destroyed their family home, which left him fighting for his life.

Unable to eat or move parts of his body, he began intensive physical therapy at an Islamic Relief Centre for Physical Therapy.

"Thanks to Allah Almighty, my son was able to recover part of the ability to speak and move his hand and left foot again," says Abu Satee. "I am very happy with this improvement. I am grateful to everyone who contributed to his treatment. I hope to Allah that he completely recovers and returns to school."

Shelter

Rebuilding homes in Syria

Storms, snow, severe cold, heavy rain, and strong winds in the winter of 2022 caused damage to two million Syrians living in more than 1,400 camps in Northern Syria. Islamic Relief had started rebuilding houses to find a solution and ensure a safe place for the families affected. The aim of the project is to restore dignity and preserve the well-being of families in vulnerable conditions and give hope to a generation born and raised in refugee camps, by giving them the opportunity to live a better future.

FAQ's - SHELTER

Are the houses built on owned lands?

The houses are built on the land owned by the supplier, which will be owned by the beneficiary once construction is completed.

How are the houses built by Islamic Relief made up?

The houses are made from concrete and are earthquake resistant.

How many houses has Islamic Relief built?

Islamic Relief currently has many shelter projects ongoing. 66 houses have been built and handed over to rightsholders. 48 are under construction and around 400 houses will start soon. We are in the final phase of signing the contract with the suppliers.

Are all houses the same?

They are very similar. We had a design before the earthquake and a new one after, which is more reinforced to resist earthquakes.

How many houses are required to meet the need?

The need for houses is very big. The number of people who are still living in camps, and in need of permanent shelter is huge [around 1,500 camps].

Have the houses got access to WASH, gas and electricity supplies? How?

Wash and electricity are considered. No gas installation in Northern Syria.

What services are available around, like school and hospitals?

One of the criteria before starting construction is to consider the public services such as hospitals, schools, transportation, and markets.

What is the main source of income for these families after moving to a new house?

Most of them are depending on humanitarian aid, some of them are getting an incomes through daily work.

Why is it so cheap to build a house there considering that houses are built in a war zone?

This is mainly because of the size of the house which is not that big.

What are the criteria for a family to qualify for a home?

1. Families displaced for more than a year.
2. Families where the head is disabled, and the number of family members must be more than 3 individuals [all children aged less than 18 years].
3. Families where the head is a widow or divorced, and the number of family members must be more than 3 individuals [all children aged less than 18 years].
4. Families where the head is elderly [60 years or older], must be unemployed, and the number of family members must be more than 3 individuals [all children aged less than 18 years].
5. The family must not possess any housing or other accessible assets.
6. The family must not have a fixed source of income.
7. The family must not have previously benefited from shelter projects provided by other NGOs.

Will the homes be furnished and have adequate facilities?

Beneficiaries will move from camps with their belongings and will gradually get additional equipment whenever they can afford to do so.

Is it possible to have a plaque on a home in memory of a person [Sadaqah Jaariya]?

It is not recommended as this will affect rightsholders moral.

How does Islamic Relief ensure the safety of the families considering houses are built near a war zone?

One of the criteria in selecting the construction area is to be close to the border with Turkiye, which is more secure than the front-line area.

If the guardian of children who live in these houses passes away, what happens with the inheritance of the house?

This will apply to same inheritance law as the house will be moved the family of the guardian.
